LinkedIn Guide for Students & Graduates

Compiled by Syaza Nazura (Website | LinkedIn)

Hello!

Thank you for downloading this LinkedIn Guide for students & graduates!

I hope this will help you as you step out into the working world by giving you suggestions and ideas on how to build your personal (and professional) brand on LinkedIn.

General advice

If you are on LinkedIn, you have to be posting content regularly to keep your profile visible to other people. If posting daily sounds daunting to you, you can start with weekly posts and gradually increase it until you can commit to a daily post. But do not post too many times in a day - you do not want to spam other people's feeds!

Reminder

Building a strong brand on LinkedIn (or on any other platforms) is a long and hard journey. It is not something that you can do and complete in a day. The journey can take months or years, so the earlier you start, the better it gets for you in the future. Don't worry too much about making big numbers (in terms of engagement, likes, comments, shares, etc) when you are first starting out. Focus on getting yourself familiar with the platform and comfortable with writing and sharing your story out with the world. The rest will come in due time.

Good luck & all the best to you. Stay awesome & take care!

Love,

Nazu xx

LinkedIn Checklist

Having an All-Star status on LinkedIn helps your profile to be more visible to potential recruiters and connections. Here is a short checklist for you to ensure that your LinkedIn profile is up to date and ready for you to start building & developing your personal & professional brand.

- ☐ Add a profile picture. Preferably a front-facing clear and professional picture.
- ☐ Add a compelling headline. Instead of writing "Undergraduate student in XXX at ABC University" or "Looking for internship from XXX to XXX 2021", be specific in your headline. Write down your degree area (Computer Science) and two-three specific areas that you are interested in (Data Analysis, Machine Learning). If you can, add something extra on what you do/can offer to potential employers (I help you make sense of your data).
- ☐ Fill in your Industry & Location. Pretty much what it says.
- ☐ Share your Experience. Add any part-time or full-time work experiences or internship on your profile. Also include your achievements from them too.
- ☐ Add at least 5 skills. Apart from the typical "Microsoft" skills, add in more industry-specific skills that you have (SPSS, AutoCAD, Photoshop, etc).
- ☐ Write your summary. You don't have to go into a whole life story, but be specific in introducing yourself, the skills that you have and what you have to offer. Add in your achievements or successes. Don't forget a Call-to-Action at the end of your summary (Let's get connected for XXXX or Email me at XXXX to discuss potential collaborations).
- ☐ Complete your Education section. Add in your degree (or higher).
- ☐ Add at least 50 connections. Start with your classmates & professors, and don't forget to connect with recruiters or hiring managers in your intended industry. Use the Search function to look up companies that you are interested in joining.

Extra: Give/request recommendation! If you have work experience before, try to ask your previous manager or colleague to give you a recommendation. And don't forget to also give recommendations to your colleagues or manager, etc.

What can you post on LinkedIn?

Listed below are just some of the many, many things that you can post on your LinkedIn timeline. This list is by no means exhaustive, or a complete guide. You may choose to tweak and change it up according to your own personal needs and use.

General topics to post on LinkedIn:

1. Introduce yourself and what you do - this may be one of the first few posts you can do, and you can probably do this every few weeks or months for your new connections. Let people know who you are and what you do (or want to do).
2. Ask a question from your connections - this can be about anything in the world, ranging from advice for job hunting, recommendations on online courses, tips for interviews, etc.
3. Share a lesson you've learnt - either from someone in your life, a book, etc.
4. Write about who or what inspires you in your work.
5. Share an infographic - either make your own on Canva, or share someone else's (with credit to them!)
6. Record and post your video resume - keep it to 3 minutes or less.
7. Share a recent win (or loss) - recently secured a job or internship? Received your final results from your studies? Share your updates!
8. Interview someone (your parents/grandparents/family members/friend/stranger) about their past working experiences and what they have to share about their jobs or careers.
9. Summarize an event/webinar/conference that you attended. Include what you have learnt from them.
10. Share someone else's posts and add in your own thoughts and ideas!
11. Ask your connections to introduce themselves - get to know who they are and what they do!
12. Share quick tips or do's and don'ts - this can be about anything, from daily routines, productivity, work-life balance, Zoom calls, etc.
13. Share an inspirational or motivational quote, and why it's important to you!
14. Share an article from an external source, and add what you think of it!
15. Survey your audience - works best if you have a bigger connection. Use the polling feature to ask your audience questions.
16. Share feedback and reviews - works well if you have your own business or if you have products or services to sell.

17. Share your portfolio - especially if you're a creative student with a website, a blog, YouTube channel, etc.
18. Share a presentation / slide deck - if you have recently presented something, share it with the world (if they're not confidential of course!)
19. Give Kudos or celebrate someone - either a colleague/friend or your manager. Show your appreciation in public to the people who have helped you!
20. Share some causes that you believe in, any NGOs that you support or any organizations that you fight for.
21. Start a discussion by tagging thought leaders or experts in your field. Use this opportunity to network and increase your knowledge about industry-related news!
22. Have a side hustle or run your own business? Share them here! Show behind-the-scenes on what you do or share what you actually do as a passion project!
23. Share your aspiration/dream - where do you see yourself in 5 years? 10 years? 20 years? Share what you aim to be and what you're doing now to help you reach that goal.
24. React to a current news or industry update - anything major happening in the industry or in the world? Share your thoughts!
25. Share something that is beneficial or useful for others - either applications or software that you enjoy using, websites/podcasts that are beneficial, etc.
